I was only an FC3 but made second while I was there and it was the most eye opening experience I've had and I'm glad I went through it there. I've also made some lifelong friends while there that still keep in touch. I left the ship before it got out of the yards in Portland and wish I could have been there when she decommissioned but I was in Mare Island, CA. teaching. Now I'm in the AEGIS community and still think it doesn't compare to what we had on the Standley. I still miss it.

					I served on Standley from Aug '75 to June '78. I was a FTG3, 2nd division. Went on 2 Med cruises and through the Panama Canal on the way to drydock in Bremerton, WA. in Sept '77. Shipped out in June '78 while she was still in the yards. Man, they sure tore that ship apart .I didn't think they would ever get it floating again. Would like to here from some old buddies from Gun Plot like Frank Quistgaard, Mike Lundquist and even "Big John" Johnson (our First Class). I remember some good times like the Med cruise of '77 when we went up into the Black Sea with a Fast Frigate for two weeks and worried the russians to death. Before we left we pulled along side the FF and sent over the whale boat to trade movies.The Krivac corvette that was shadowing us the whole time pulled up so close to see what we were doing I thought she was going to go right between us and the FF. She couldn't have been more than 100 feet off the stern. Their whole crew was topside checking us out. I wonder if they ever got what we were doing? I thought I had pictures but

18	5/5/1999 23:05	Roger Jackson, aka	rjackson@oc.ctc.edu	Port Townsend, Washington	It was a real serious honor to serve aboard the "Willie Hot Dog". She was/is a good ship with a history of casting a bold presence where American interests were to be represented. The vessel had an excellent balance in terms of the way the ship would roll and heel in the heavy seas. An easy ride in the worst of sea states. With the "Outboard" system on her, the places visited and areas "observed" were of true value to the US Navy and our nation. We had an extended cruise off Siberia that would test any ship. The Standley did it very well! It would be good to hear from any former shipmate and I'd be very interested in helping see to it that she goes into a noble retirement of a display status somewhere. If the USS Turner Joy can be preserved, the USS Standley can be every bit as valuable.

I spent over 5 years on the "Hot Dog" and got to know her well, from the sonar dome to the SPS-10 platform. The only other ship that I served on that could even compare to her was the Sterett CG-31, Best homeport, Subic Bay, PI. It is sad that the Standley and her sister ships were decommissioned 10 years early. There are no ships in the US fleet today that as capable as the Belknap cruisers were in their final configuration. Morton E. Toole was the best CO I had in 20 years. I'd still go to war with him. It makes me proud to have been a part of such a fine ship. I spent some of the worst and best times of my life onboard the Willy H.. Some of the things that I remember is getting woke up at about 2:30am for flight quarters, and being told that we were going to attempt to land a CH-53 jolly green giant on the flight deck. I was a blue suit at the time and we all knew what would happen if we tried to land that chopper, CRASH!. Well thankfully the chopper made it to the Nimitz and the next day we were informed that chopper was returning from a botched rescue attempt in Iran. That was 1980 and we recieved the Navy Expeditionary Medal. Then there was the time that we had a flareback in one of the boilers(I hope that I said that right). When it happened I was on the LeeHelm and we went right to GQ, some of us thought we had been hit by a missle the way it shook the ship. We spent 4 days in Diego Garcia next to a Destroyer Tender the name of which I don't recall. I went to 2 WesPac's and spent 3-1\2yrs.

We met the ship in Boston for the commissioning on July 9,1966. I made the Med cruise in 1967, and the WESTPAC cruise in 1968. Some of the more memorable countries/ports we visited were the Canary Islands,Pearl Harbor,Jamaica,Hong Kong,Sasebo and Yokosuka,Japan. Who could forget the promised port visits to Australia and New Zealand that were cancelled,so we steamed over 1000 miles out of our way to become shellbacks.I was discharged on October 1, 1969 in Mayport as a ETN2.It certainly was a great ship but what made it such a memorable experience was my GREAT shipmates, some of which I recognize from this web site.Thanks Gunner.

80	5/12/2000 22:00	Curtis Garretson	crgarret@nia.attmil.ne.jp	Stationed onboard USS Vincennes CG-49 in Japan	Upon decom. I have entered the Aegis CG world. But I must say that WHS had many advantages. I still think it was a mistake to get rid of Terrier CG's. They should have taken the NTU and just put it on a new hull. They say the reason Terrier went away was due to the high cost. I have been in the Aegis world for over 7 years now and we spend much more on the Aegis system than we ever did for Terrier. The WHS was my worst of times and then became my best of times in the Navy. I would like to thank Capt Shires for supporting the crew and being there for us. My tour with him was the best of my 18y career. He believed in taking care of the crew and in return the crew took care of the ship. BZ. Yeoman 3rd class Kendall. I couldn't believe it. I had been in my attic not long ago and found my '71 WestPac cruise book, and had been wondering what happened to all you guys. It was truly amazing to receive a call like that out of the blue. Anyway, just to let you all know what been happening in my life. I'm married still to the same girl (28 years now) believe it or not. Got 3 "grown" kids and 2 grand kids. I am Director of Manufacturing for a company just outside of Philadelphia. I still go to school (take courses at night). My wife is a registered nurse and a full time law student at night at Temple Univ. My kids are doing well and soon my youngest gets married and we will officially be "empty nesters". Hard to believe isn't it. Where does the time go? Anybody out there want to say hi can reach me here at FFricker@MSN.com or ffricker@quad-sys.com (work). 95	8/4/2000 18:48	Louise Herron Jordan	BayouLou222@aol.com	New Orleans	I am one of William H. Standley's many grandchildren. My mother was Marie Herron, no. 4 of his 5 children. My cousin Marion Wincote told me about your site. Our granddad was a super person who loved the Navy and his country very much. He had an enormous curiosity and a sense of wonder, and was full of fascinating stories. He was Ambassador to the Soviet Union when he was 72 years old, traveling to Moscow during WWII across Africa to Afghanistan and in by the back door. I have a copy of his book and his memoirs. And he was a very handsome man - that picture sure doesn't do him justice! We were very proud to have a ship named after him, and I was fortunate to pay the Standley a visit in 1988 on a visit to San Diego. I live in New Orleans, wife of a high ranking administrator in the USDA - have grandkids of my own. I love the site! Thank you... Lou Jordan

152	5/9/2001 11:01	Reed Radcliffe	webmaster@midwestgunshows.com	St. Louis, MO	Well, I see this has changed, as has my e-mail and web site. Anyway, CG-32 was my first ship of five in my 20 year career. 1977 - 78, First Division under Chief Hamilton. Struck for Radioman, went to school, went to USS Chicago. Eventually SCORE converted to Data Systems Technician, retired a DSC in 1997. Now a Project Manager at BJC Health Care in St. Louis. Had a good time during my time on Standley, but that was the whole reason for being in the Navy. You can see by my retired rank I just kept on having fun - advancement wasn't top on my priorities! As they say, Been to Maine, Spain, Spokane - Around the World 3 times and seen goats * in the market place, but ain't never seen no st like this! Fair winds to all my shipmates!

158	6/20/2001 0:58	Terry Standley	StandleyWolfPack@AOL.com	Stevensville, MT (Originally from Oregon)	Someone in BUPERS had a sense of humor because I was sent right out of boot camp in October, 1965 to report to a pre-commissioning detail in Bath, Maine on a ship that had my surname! So I am a proud plank owner and served as a sideboy for the commissioning ceremony. I started in First Dept. as a seaman duece, deck ape and after 9 months Chief Lewis brought me in as a Corpsman striker. When we sailed her on her maiden voyage to Boston we didn't have much on board in the way of medical supplies. As the striker, guess who did all the work? I was on board when we sailed to Gitmo for her shakedown cruise. My time aboard was some of the best times in my life. I left in April, 1967 to attend Corp School at Great Lakes. HMC Lewis or Rick Cronin HM2-if your out there please contact me.

Later the division was changed to CA (Combat Acoustics). I hated to hear about the "steamers" decommissioning, I felt as though I lost something, even though I knew she would not steam along forever. I did enjoyed two WESPAC's and many other trips, with my most favorite being the trip to Acapulco in 1986. I have a lot of fond memories as well as some nightmares, but wouldn't change it for anything. I hope that those I served with are all doing well and in good health. Thank you all for serving your country! P.S. My name is also on page 90 but the email address is no longer valid, so I signed the book again.

					Served on the "Hotdog" 1978 to 1981. Two WESPAC deployments & the Iran Rescue Attempt. Never got out of 1st Div. Had most fun with Koch (What arrrrre you doing?) and Pickell (Hey..., you want some saki?). Had the least fun with the "Ape Man" (There's works to be did...), as the head deck ape was called for short and "Richie (Why won't they call me 'Sir'?) Cunningham". Funny, we never had any problem addressing Lt. J.J. Degree as "Sir"! Fun days, indeed... As for now... At this time, (Mr. Francia, at THIS time...) I'm living pretty darn well. I have a great job, live in a nice home, drive a nice car, own three Rolex watches and take wonderful vacations. Well, I'm getting hungry, so I'll sign-off. Gotta go to Hooters and eat some buffalo chicken strips, while I mentally undress (among other things) "my babies"!

					78-'81, ET2, OE Div. Served under O'Toole, Roberts and O'Keefe. Assigned to the Hotdog while she was in Bremerton and transferred off in Sasbo during our 2nd WestPac. Remembering Ray Lunak, Wade Norman, Gerry Faber, Jeff Birr, Kerry Kopp and so many others. My favorite printable story has me waiting to go into the ships store, port side and aft of the mess deck below the wardroom ladder. There was one officer and one chief in the store with a sign clearly stating "Two people only at one time" as it was pretty small. Capt. O'Toole comes down from the wardroom and sees me waiting. He proceeds to tell me that "Officers and Chiefs aren't people", opens the door to the store and shoves me in. It's no wonder he made Admiral as soon as he was transferred off! As far as unprintable stories remembering Payroll and Irwin one day on the messdeck at lunch and Mike Brunet's revenge continue to bring a smile to my face. :) Revised to correct my faulty memory.

451	9/10/2005 19:32	John Walters EW1 USNR-Retired	jwaltfour@sbc.global.net	Indianapolis IN USA	The Ex-USS William H. Standley DLG-32/CG-32 hulk was towed from Pearl Harbor to Australia in June 2005. She was to be sunk 100 nautical miles off the coast at the conclusion of Joint Exercise "Talisman Sabe 2005" There are photos from a helo firing 50 cal rounds into what is identified as the Standley. 					1981-1985 exited DS-3 & ships diver, enjoyed the cruise, loved the ship, Lots & Lots of memories & stories. Saw a lot of most excellent places & did a lot of crazy things. The crew was awesome & made a lot of friends but did not stay in touch. Now 21 years of marriage & 6 awesome children later doing some research I discovered that the old steamer is at the bottom of the ocean, I wish I could of taken my kids on a tour of her one last time. Maybe it will be a scuba adventure instead.

I boarded the Standley in 1969 after she returned from Wespac and remained aboard until Jan. of 1973. I started out in 1st. div. BMSA and later transferred to S2 div. in the laundry. I later transferred to the barber shop as the ship's barber SHB3. I hope that any of my hair cuts didn't cause anyone to go bald. Had a lot of good times on the steamer. I would like to say hats off to all the crew members that served aboard her and a big hats off to Capt. A.L. Blanks. I live in Lyons, Ga. Have three lovely children and four grandchildren. I had to take an early retirement from the Ga. power co. A big thanks to Mike for bringing back a lot of good memories.

I served on board (as an SM2/1) from Oct 90 (Portland shipyard) to decommissioning in 94. Memories of the days in NW Marine and the trip to Somalia are still there. Anyone who served with me at that time, please contact me as I would like to hear how things are going for ya and what your up to these days.

I was Missile Ordnance Officer, Missile Fire Control Officer and finally Missile Officer (I am an ex-FTM1). During my 30 months, the ship was in our homeport of Mayport, FL, only 4 months. We were definitely steamers. I have many fond memories of serving with a wonderful group of sailors. I made a few mistakes as a JO, but learned from them (I hope). I retired in 1983; final job was CIWS Program Manager in DC.

It seem's it dosen't matter what years we served on her, but we all have great memories of her, and the people we served with. I know I'll never forget. I think about those times often. To each and every one of you, Thank you for our Freedom. You all paid the price, and I know we would do it again. We are all Brothers. It's sad to hear she was laid to rest.

					I remember her as getting distinction in history as the "Lone Watch stander" off the coast of Mogadishu, Semalia. That was her last cruise and an enjoyable one. We had run out of food on that cruise and had no clue what would be served as the MS's dreamed up items. I know I gave up my stash to the Chiefs mess so we could survive. Not knowing where your next meal would come from was some trying times and we still provided hot water and a shower to the Marines on the beach. I will never forget that cruise or our Commander at decom driving up on the waterfront and watching the Standley be pulled away by tugs to go to her final resting spot. It was a sad moment that only the Capt and I had watching it go away. The Standley did not deserve that as she had years left in her and could be counted on to do what was expected of her and she did it. In 24 years in the Navy, she was my ship and I have fond memories.

"Jesus Fing Christ!", exclaimed one very tired and frustrated Seaman Terry Meeks, as 1st Division rolled out of their bunks. It was the culmination of our failed Iran Rescue Attempt. The stricked RH-53 Sea Stallion managed to make it back to the Nimitz and the rest is history. I marked the anniversary by telephoning former 1st Division shipmate, Tim Shafer. Actually, I'm thinking about all of you today - and wishing you well! All the best, Chris

696	5/15/2009 19:19	Stuart M. Hicks	stubhm@yahoo.com	Birmingham, AL	US 1976-1980 just checking back in. Came on board in Charleston '76..Med '77...Panama Canal transit to Bremerton..Yard Period 77-78...Homeport change to San Diego '78-'79...West Pac '79-'80. If I only knew then what I think I know now! Lived as much in 4 years as most do in 20. Miss it alot. I remember plotting surface contacts in Med on DRT and people kept putting their hands on my plot. I said "next one puts his hand on my plot gets stuck with compass." 5 minutes later a hand appeared on the DRT in front of me and I stuck my compass in it. I looked up to see Mort the Snort with the veins in his neck about to explode, glaring at me. He said nothing and just left CIC. 10 minutes later he came back but when he entered CIC, surface, he stuck his head in first and said "I'm coming in, somebody grab Hicks so I can get through!" In 2006 I went to the Smithsonian in DC and they had a CIC recreated in the Naval area. I pointed out and explained every piece of equipment to my wife. She began laughing hysterically and I didn't quite get why at first then

					I was transferred from Fleet Training Group in Guantanamo to the Steamer in January, 1966. While in Norfolk, they sent me up to Bath as a member of the Nucleus Crew. I am also a plank owner. I was an RM3 when I came aboard at the Bath Iron Works and left as an RM2 in March, 1968. I left the ship at Suda Bay and had an interesting experience on my way back to the States via a MATS flight from Suda Bay to Rota, Spain and a flight the next day on an Air Force Cargo flight to Norfolk and on to the SAC base in Omaha. I read an entry by someone that the ship was commissioned in Mayport, but I remember the ceremony in Boston, prior to going to Mayport. Is my memory wrong? I'll never forget the first time we went out from Bath with the shipyard workers on board, or the trip from Bath to Boston, or the first time out from Boston with the full crew. A lot of the crew out on the decks, at the guns, seasick, puking all over the place. Looked like a scene from a war movie where a ship might have been hit with a chemical weapon of some type.

823	11/30/2010 19:39	QM2 Bryan J. Long	bjlong@brightdsl.net	Doylestown, OH	Served 1983-1986 from deckhand to QM2 during my tour onboard the Standley. I remember having our WestPAC canceled and sitting off the coast of El Salvador and Nicaragua instead. The trip through the Panama Canal was awesome and the visit to Acapulco was worth it! If you remember me, drop me an e-mail. Would love to hear from you.
824	12/5/2010 17:23	Thomas Ritter	tigerritter@comcast.net	Humble, Texas	HM3 Thomas Ritter I served onboard the Standley From 77-78 It had just came back from med cruise when I checked in, I wasn't onboard for more than twenty minutes and was smokeing a bowl of Morocian hash in the post office. Good times, did the order of the ditch thru Panama, on to the shipyard in Bremmerton, 9 months later I blew out my ACL playing football, and was off the ship, It was a great exprience.
